The Heart of the Highlands-Cashiers Plateau

The Laurel Magazine, the Heart of the Plateau, is a monthly celebration of the uncommon magic that can be found daily in the Highlands and Cashiers communities.

Whatever the Plateau's secret, it's always been a clarion call for all those looking for something different – the hardy pioneers, naturalists, poets, musicians, artists, and assorted dreamers.

They, we've, discovered and nurtured something unique and precious.

We've been chronicling the stories and the lives of Cashiers, Highlands, Glenville, Scaly Mountain and Toxaway (and all those glorious little places in between) for over 20 years.

We like to think that The Laurel Magazine is a pretty good reflection of these communities. It's what we chronicle with every issue, every calendar listing, every video we post. Each is a testament to the love that we share for this place and these people.

And those 20 years of publication have granted us a unique perspective on this small patch of land and its people. It's given our magazine a unique flavor, and our pages are an invitation to savor life on the Plateau.

Naturally, our photography can't really capture the transcendent beauty of, say, Blue Valley or Silver Run Falls, nor can our prose, no matter how clever or poetic, ever match the big ideas and big hearts of the people who live here. But we make every effort with each and every issue.
